Reporting questions and answers

How do I report irrelevant or inappropriate questions and answers?

You can help us make sure that Q&A remains high quality by reporting any content that falls into a category we have identified as inappropriate in our Community Guidelines and Q&A Guidelines. It's important that you follow these easy steps for reporting so that we have enough information to find the content on the site.

Here’s how to report a question or answer if you’re a ResearchGate member:

1. Find the question or answer you want to report
2. For questions, the Report button is located beneath the topics assigned to it
3. For answers, the Report button is located to the right of the answer
4. Tell us why you’re reporting the question or answer
5. Click Report question or Report answer to confirm

The content has now been reported and appropriate action will be taken as soon as possible.

Note: If you’re not a ResearchGate member, you can report questions and answers by sending a message to our Community Support team. Please be sure to include a hyperlink to the page where the content appears on ResearchGate, as well as a screenshot of the exact question or answer you’re reporting. This gives us the information we need to find it on the site. Also, please include your reason for reporting.
